

Alexis Millares Thomson has been teaching theory at the University Settlement Music & Arts School since 2018. He grew up in Mexico City studying piano, percussion, and guitar, and was a member of the youth percussions group CUMAC for seven years, during which they performed in Mexico and abroad. Alexis holds a BFA with great distinction from Concordia University, specializing in Music Composition, and an MA in Music Theory from the University of Toronto. He is currently working towards his PhD in Music Theory at the University of Toronto supported by the Social Sciences and Humanities Research Council of Canada. His research focuses on mathematical models in music theory and the study of tuning systems in contemporary music. Alexis lives in midtown Toronto with his partner and their two dogs.