About USMAS | 100 years and counting!

Since 1921, University Settlement's Music & Arts School has offered high-quality, affordable music and art education to children, teens, adults and seniors from both the Grange neighbourhood and Greater Toronto Area.

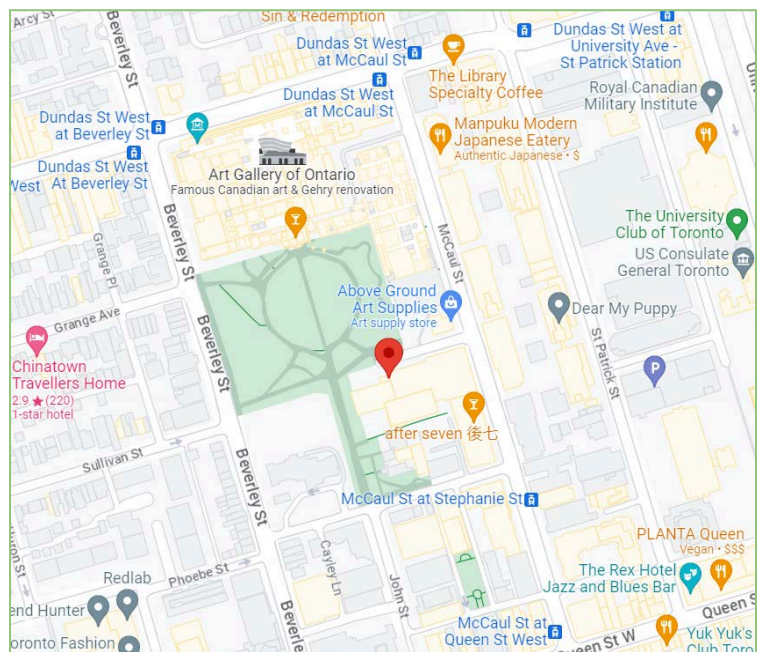

We function in the belief that the arts should be a right, not a privilege, and that lessons should be available to everyone regardless of age, ethnicity, perceived talent, disability, or socioeconomic status. Our School aims to provide an open house of learning in a welcoming, family atmosphere. All are welcome.

“Our teacher is an exceptionally kind, professional, and trustworthy individual. In addition to teaching my children music, the teacher has also instilled in them a positive attitude towards life and learning.”

Location

The School is located at 23 Grange Road in the heart of downtown Toronto. It is easily accessible by public transit, within walking distance of 505 and 501 streetcar routes as well as the St. Patrick and Osgoode subway stations.

Our school and studios are all accessible! Limited paid parking is available directly outside the building on Grange Road, additional street parking is available on McCaul, or in the Village by the Grange underground lot.

FAQs - frequently asked questions!

What is your policy on cancellations?

If you cancel your private lesson, a make-up lesson will be offered, maximum of 1 per term. Should your teacher cancel a lesson, it will be rescheduled. Group classes missed by a student are not rescheduled or refunded. If extenuating circumstances prevent you from completing the term, please enquire in the office about the School's Early Withdrawal Policies.

Does the School have its own system of learning?

There is no University Settlement method of music instruction. Our teachers are trained in and familiar with many methods. Should you wish, our faculty can offer you guided instruction in progressive methods, such as the RCM method. Some students, particularly adults, prefer to progress at their own pace, setting their own goals in consultation with our teachers. Music & Arts School faculty members are also qualified to draw upon their knowledge to offer this type of individualized instruction.

Will I need to practice, and may I practice at the School?

Yes, private practice is essential if you wish to progress in your studies. You can practice at the School during teaching hours, so long as a studio is not reserved for private teaching. Please check the studio schedules next to the Music Office door for studio availability.

Will I need to buy book or an instrument right away?

Not necessarily. The School has several different types of instruments available for rental at reasonable rates. We also keep a waitlist of students looking to either purchase or receive a donated piano. Please keep in mind that as you progress in your studies, a purchase will become necessary. While we can often supply some music for the first few lessons, you will be expected to purchase music books.
